Our new visitor experience featuring items and memorabilia from tenement Dublin and beyond opens its doors on Saturday 18 August at 1pm.

This marks a special day for the North Inner City Folklore Project and indeed, for everyone who is interested in the history of the area.

Come and observe our treasure trove and absorb the atmosphere that existed when these items were in regular use. The displays are accompanied by vivid pictures and recordings which bring to life the challenges and conditions that people faced in their everyday lives.

Throughout National Heritage Week, local and guest speakers will offer free talks about various aspects of times past in the north inner city. There will also be daily walking tours with local historian, Terry Fagan of the North Inner City Folklore Project.

We are a small Project with a big ambition - to shine a light on the rich past of the North Inner City and to engage visitors with the fascinating story of the people who lived, worked and played on these streets.

Join us and experience the real Dublin!

National Heritage Week Highlights

Short films will be shown throughout the week.

Guided Walking Tour - Old tenement Dublin and Red Light District

With Terry Fagan, founder of the North Inner City Folklore Project.

Tenement Life

Local poet and historian Michael Foran shares his memories of growing up in the north inner city.

Documentary: The Runner & The Northside Oscar Schindler (2009)

The story of Christy Fagan who was sent to Ferryhouse Industrial School as a child - and the man, Jemmy Gunnery who helped him escape. Award winning radio documentary from RTÉ's Doc on One.

With introduction by Christy's brother, Terry Fagan.

Murder In Monto

With Martin Coffey B.A. (Hons), Dublin Author and historian. The story of Margaret Carroll (Martin's great grandmother) and her sister, Nannie McLoughlin, both prostitutes, who were charged with a horrific murder that took place on the doorstep of a brothel in the Red-Light District of 'Monto'.

Around the Table - An Oral History of Food in the North Inner City

Historian, Donal Fallon on his quest to find out about Dublin's past food culture. Dockers, chip shop workers, slaughterhouse staff, street traders and market workers are among those who shared their experiences about feeding the Dubs.

Wait'll I tell ye!

A chance to hear North Inner City memories recorded locally over the past 40 years. Introduction by Mary Muldowney, Historian

Film: Sheriff Street in the 1960s

The experience of living in Sheriff Street more than half a century ago. How many faces do you recognise?

Film: Moving out to the Suburbs (1964)

More than half a century ago, people talk about moving from inner city tenements to new houses in the suburbs.

Close the Door - Gloucester Street Magdalene Laundry (1990)

Personal accounts shared by women who spent their adult lives in the convent of Our Lady of Refuge - the Gloucester Street Magdalene Laundry. This documentary was first broadcast on RTÉ Radio in 1990.

Introduction by Terry Fagan, founder, North Inner City Folklore Project

The Rare Aul Times?

A chance to hear Voices from the North Inner City - memories recorded over the past 30 years.

Introduction and talk by Mary Muldowney, Historian in Residence for Dublin City's Central Area.

The Boys of Foley Street (1975, 1988 and 2008)

This RTÉ radio documentary starts in 1975 when Pat Kenny interviewed four boys between 13 and 16. Thirteen years later, he returned to interview them again. Twenty years on, a follow-up documentary explored what happened to these children.

With introduction and talk by Louise Lowe, Anu Productions who created an immersive drama on Foley Street (just around the corner) about this aspect of our social history.
